Abstract: At the community level, there are a series of rural development initiatives, LEADER being one of them, the purpose being to encourage, at the European level, public-private partnerships and the exchange of best practices, in order to promote the rural world. The solution of public-private partnerships, namely cooperation, in various forms, between public authorities and the business environment, in order to ensure financing, construction, renovation, management, maintenance of an infrastructure or provision of a service, is not a novelty. In some countries of the European Union, the operation of this type of partnership has very good results, for the development of rural area. The purpose of this research is to propose the development of competitive rural enterprises through LAGs and public-private partnerships.

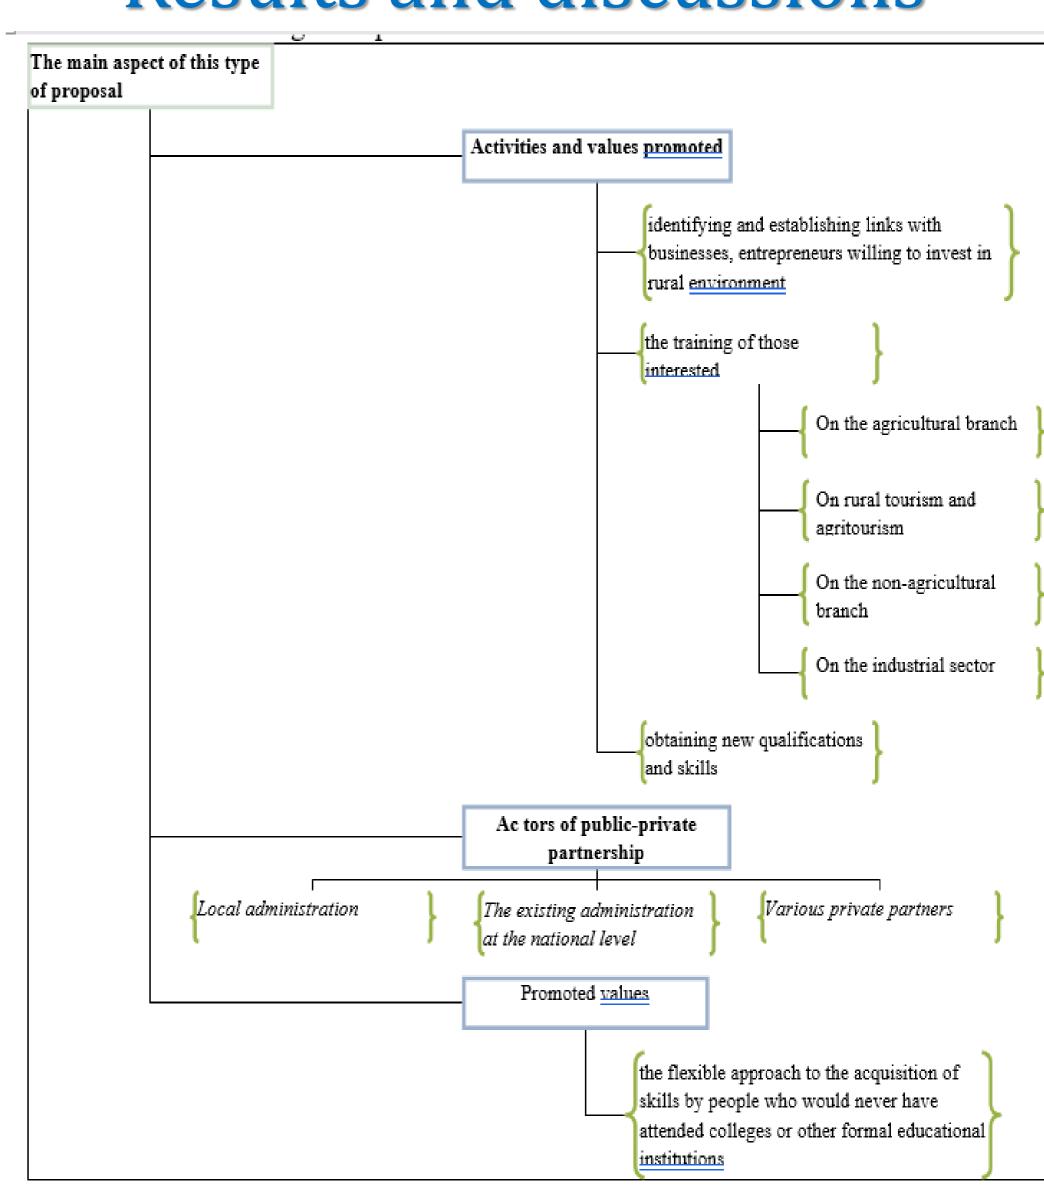

Introduction

Starting from 2007, LEADER is included in the rural development programs supported by the EU, along with other rural development axes. The difference between LEADER and other more traditional rural policy measures LEADER shows "how" to proceed and not "what" to do the LEADER approach can be summarized in seven essential features. Advantages Responds to specific local meads Capitalize local sessuress Mobilize local actors Offiers for rural areas the possibility of collaboration with other tearnitories. It is essential for balanced territorial development

Material and method

• The purpose of this research is to propose the development of competitive rural enterprises through LAGs and public-private partnerships. Thus in order to achieve this objective several stages must be pursued: describing the relevant aspects characterising the public-private partnerships, presenting the proposals by mentioning: the area to which such a project can be applied, the main objectives pursued, also the main values and the presentation of the actors of such a proposal.
